PLAN MOTORCADE

Live Ouachita City Plans
Visiting Hope On Festival Day.

Twenty-five cars bringing bankers, business men and community leaders from Camden and Ouachita county will arrive in Hope bright and early the morning of the fourth annual Watermelon Festival, August 8.

The Star was advised of the motorcade plans by telephone this morning from Luther Ellison, secretary of Camden Chamber of Commerce. It is the largest motor delegation reported up to date, in what promises to be the biggest and finest festival ever held in South Arkansas.

A railroad excursion from as far north as Hugo, Okla., has been announced by the Frisco, which will also bring the famous Frisco band, a 50-piece organization with headquarters at Fort Smith. Reports from all South Arkansas cities indicate the best interest ever aroused over the melon festival, this year.

The Hope committees are busy with plans for the floats—which will be more numerous and costly this year than ever before. Books of designs and samples of materials have arrived and many of the business houses have already chosen their 1929 show pieces.

Most of the decorations have been chosen, and will be put in place probably Monday, August 20.

One Place Vacant On Farm Board

President Can't Find the Proper Man From
Wheat Belt.

WASHINGTON, July 16.—(AP)— Selection of a representative for the wheat growing industry on the federal farm board will require two or three weeks, it was announced today at the White House.

The President is making a study of available names, but a difference of opinion among cooperative growers and marketers is causing some worry. However it is hoped the difficulty will be finally threshed out.

Meantime, there are several men on the board who have had considerable experience in growing and marketing wheat and the President feels it is capable of going ahead with the prepared program.

Frank H. Moore of Hull, Eng., was ordered by a judge not to speak or write to his wife for a year.

De Priest Says He Will Tour South

Intends To Teach "the Colored Man His Rights."

CHICAGO, July 16.—(AP)—Introduction in congress of a federal election law bill is promised by Oscar De Priest, negro representative at Washington from Illinois.
In his first speech in Chicago on National racial questions since his election to congress, De Priest told a negro audience his proposed bill would put national elections in the hands of government election boards. De Priest was introduced as the lone representative in Washington of the 12 million negroes in the United States.

"I am fighting," said De Priest,
"not for social equality but for equality under the law. The prosperous colored folks in the north must rescue the disfranchised black peons of the south before we can say the negro of America is free."
"I am going to continue my tour through the south, notwithstanding threats I have received. I'm going to try to teach the colored people of their rights under the constitution."

Runs in Virginia Caraway Looking Into Lobbying

Dr. William Moseley Brown, above, the new president of Washington and Lee University, Lexington, is a candidate for governor of Virginia on a ticket sponsored by Republicans and "Hoover Democrats," opposed to the regular Democratic ticket because of its support of Governor Al Smith in the last presidential election. Bishop James Cannon, Jr., ardent dry, is a force behind the new ticket.

First Car Melons Shipped Out Today

J. W. Strickland Puts the First Car of '29 Crop
On Market.

First car of the 1929 melon crop was shipped today by J. W. Strickland, an advance of nearly three weeks over corresponding shipment of last year, and the first of what growers believe will be a record shipment from the county.

The melons were none of them extra large, averaging up around 40 pounds in weight, but smooth and wellformed, peculiarly suited for market. They were from the southern part of the county where most of the big fellows come from.

Rebel's Family Lives With Arizona Brother

SUPERIOR, Ariz., July 16.—(AP)— In this little mining camp the family of Jose Gonzalez Escobar, insurrectionist military leader of Mexico recently, has found sanctuary with Mrs. Escobar's brother.

Senora Ernestina Escalante de Escobar and sons, Arando, 20 and Jose, jr., 18, are living quietly in the Mexican quarter in the residence of Antonio Escalante. The Senora fled from Mexico in March, carrying $100,000 across the border
for her husband.

Apparently unworried as to the general's safety, the family believes he is a present in Vancouver B. C.

Jose, jr., last talked to his father in Nogales, Sonora, where the rebel refused to cross the line
into the United States and safety.
The family has been advised that the general took a boat at Guaymas, Sonora, after the revolt's collapse and fled to Canada.

Arando and Jose, jr., are students in an El Paso, Tex. school and are vacationing here with their mother.

SINGING SCHOOL TO BE HELD AT WASHINGTON

There will be a singing school held at Washington, beginning next Monday night and continuing for twenty nights, six nights a week.

The school will be taught by Mr. Horace Kennedy, popular young teacher of this city.

A large class is expected to attend this school.

Epworth League Party At Methodist Church

Epworth League will be host to tonight at a party at the Methodist church to members of the City Union and Epworth League members of Washington and Prescott. Fun starts at eight o'clock sharp on the lawn of the church.

Feature of the party will be the auctioning off of "mystery" boxes, contents unknown, but which will prove entirely satisfactory, if not the jolly crowd who will insist on looking into them.

Don't forget. Eight o'clock sharp and bring that box!

Arkansas Senator Puts Acid Under Capitol Group of 'Hustlers.'

WASHINGTON, July 16.—(AP)— Plans for the pressing of an investigation into lobbying at the capitol as soon as the senate resumes its meetings on August 19 were made public today by Senator Caraway, democrat, Arkansas.

Though aimed directly at none of the organizations, the investigation will go into the activities of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, the Anti-Saloon League, the American Federation of Labor, the National Association of Manufacturers and others.

Gossip Helps Cure Disabled Veterans

WASHINGTON, July 16.—(AP)—
Current chat ranks as a recognized curative where disabled veterans ply their tools in the occupational therapy wards of Walter Reed Hospital.

Far from discouraging gossip sessions on the banning of liquor in the British embassy or the social status of Mrs. Edward E. Gann, the white-capped nurses welcome such displays of normal human interest.

The new size currency and the last raided still link the wheelchair clan with the world at large and add their bit to the healing process.

Such is the psychology underlying the present perceptible wave of brightness in Walter Reed wards,
as interpreted by Miss Alberta Montgomery, in charge of occupational therapy.

The veterans were so interested in the new currency they toiled leather bill folds to size long before the money reached the circulation point.

Alabama Officers Get Wanted Negro

Black Held for Murder of White Man and Assaulting Woman.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., July 16.
(AP)—State law enforcement officers today arrested Lester Bouyer, alias Charles Harris, 39-year-old negro wanted in connection with the slaying of Jack Hines, mechanic, near Bufala, last Wednesday night.

Officers say his fits the description given by Pearl Clark, Bufala, who witnessed the slaying and who was herself seriously wounded by the negro.

Bouyer admitted that he was in the vicinity of Bufala on the night of the slaying but denied any part in the crime.

Not Much Difference In Those Days and These

Mrs. Susan Cook of Butler county, Pennsylvania, still takes a lively interest in what is going on, although she is 93. Asked her opinion of the modern flapper, she said:
"Girls of 1846 had just as much fun as the girls of 1929."

Large numbers of harvest hands
have gathered in the orchard district and are ready to begin the harvest when the preaches are ready. So far no shortage of labor is anticipated, some reporting
an opportunity at more labor than
is needed.

The sales forces for handling the crop are all here and well organized. The entire force of T. H. Peppers, sales agent for the Highland District Fruit Exchange, is in Nashville and all is in perfect order in his office for handling the crop at its peak. The Missouri Pacific Railroad Company and the A. R. T.
Company are also well prepared to handle the crop, and the forces of the Western Union Telegraph Company and the Southwestern Bell Telephone Company have been increased for the harvest season, in order to take care of the great volume of business. Twenty-four hour service will be rendered by both Western Union and the telephone company.

Practically all available rooms in the city have been taken for the harvest season. Tents are going up on every hand yet a scarcity of accommodation is feared.

Chinese-Russian War Imminent Is Observers' Belief

Troop Movements to Border Rushed By Soviet and Celestial.

TIME LIMIT EXPIRES

Russia Expected To Take Prompt Action If Demands Not Met.

UNDATED, Chinese-Russian.—
(AP)—Despite expressed belief in China that no further serious consequences were expected from the recent seizure by the Chinese of the Chinese-Eastern railway, a tense feeling is developing in Moscow.

Interested officials in Paris, London and Tokyo express doubt as to the development of hostilities, but rumors of troop movements to the Siberian-Manchurian border continue steadily. Mass demonstrations against the "Chinese Fascists" were held in Moscow during the night and press publications of today unofficially "warned" that Russia would oppose any violations of her rights.

The three-day ultimatum submitted by Russia to China expired this morning, but owing to delay in communication it is generally believed the time limit will be extended.

Censored dispatches from Harbin indicate that Russian troops are moving steadily toward the border and Peking advises report the sinking of a Chinese ship in the Black river by Soviet troops. These later advices are not confirmed.

Peach Movement Light for Week

Heavy Shipment of Crop
Will Begin Next Week
Is Report.

The movement of the peach crop from the Highland District, which it was thought last week would begin heavy the first of this week, will be slow during this period, it is now thought, with the first heavy movement the first of next week.
One packing shed was in operation Monday, but it was doubtful if one car would be shipped from that shed.

The shipments from the Bert Johnson orchards were expected to begin in a light way today.

Peaches this year have the best color in a number of years, and this fact led the orchardists to believe their fruit would be ready earlier than it will be. The fruit thought to be ripe and ready for harvesting was found, in most instances to be green when cut open.

The market conditions remain good, and it seems as if the orchardists will have a real profitable harvest if nothing happens to hurt the fruit before the end of the harvest. Fruit men who have visited other large peach sections of the country report the peaches here of much better quality than any others they have seen, and they believe that if the fruit can be moved in its present condition, it will bring top prices on all markets.

Large numbers of harvest hands
have gathered in the orchard district and are ready to begin the
harvest when the preaches are
ready. So far no shortage of labor is anticipated, some reporting
an opportunity at more labor than
is needed.

To Keep Convicts On Pulaski Roads

Governor and County Judge Agree On Tentative Plan.

LITTLE ROCK, July 16.—(AP)—
Governor Parnell and County Judge Sibeck, of Pulaski county, were in conference today to reach an agreement as to keeping state convicts on Pulaski county roads.

The county judge has refused to authorize a transfer of prisoners from the road back to the penitentiary under an act of the 1929 legislature, supplanting an act passed in 1913 under which convicts doing a lesser term than five years might be worked on state highways.

Judge Sibeck said the loss of the convicts to the county would cost $50,000 per annum and indicated that Governor Parnell was willing to allow the county to retain the convicts if the Attorney General ruled that it could be legally.

Motorist Can't Plead Guilty

A L B U Q UERQUE, N. M., July 16.—"I'm charged with speeding," D. R. Smith unashamedly, explained to Judge Ritt.

Hastily scanning his docket for the second time, Judge Ritt failed to find the charge against Smith.

Smith even admitted he was speeding.

Still the judge was perplexed.
"I can't find any charge against you. Case dismissed," the judge said after scratching his head and looking over the docket for the fifth time.

Concrete Pouring Job About Over

Huge Silos At Plant At Okay Completed This Week.

The work of pouring the concrete for the twelve large storage tanks, or "silos" at the cement plant of the Arkansas Portland Cement Company at Okay, has progressed very satisfactorily
since being started last Tuesday, the tanks having assumed rather an impressive size up to Monday.

There are twelve of the tanks in the group, each 30 feet across and to be 90 feet high. They are being constructed of reinforced concrete, the slip-form method being used. It was estimated by Chief Engineer P. C. VanZandt that the work can be completed in ten days.
When completed these silos are used for the storage of the finished cement, being blown from the grinding plant into the silos, and fed from the silos into the packing rooms.

All other work at the huge plant is being pushed as fast as is possible, in order that the plant may be put in operation at an early date.

St. Louis Would Take Kinks Out of the River

ST. LOUIS, Mo., July 16.—By straightening the Mississippi River for a distance of five miles, St.
Louis can secure a riverfront park of 4,000 acres with an airport at the very doors of the downtown business section, a bathing beach, golf course, harbor for small boats and a two-and-a-half-mile riverside drive, according to E. J. Russell, chairman of the City Plan Commission.

Despite the weakness of the survivor of the daring pair of fliers, an investigation is under way as to the cause of the crash.

The body of the dead pilot will be returned to Poland for burial.

Synagogue Eclipses Famed German Church

BERLIN, July 16.—(AP)—The Evangelischer Dom, the Protestantish cathedral in which the Kaiser used to worship and from which the aviator Gunther von Huenefeld was carried to his grave, is about to be eclipsed by a synagogue.

The cupola of the "Dom" was hitherto the largest of any church in Berlin. The synagogue now building in the Prinzregentenstrasse,
in the western part of the city, will have a dome, or cupola, with a diameter of a trifle more than 119 feet, which is several yards more than the diameter of the Protestant cathedral.

blanks lost by a policeman and had filled them out and sent them to the professors and others as a joke.

Prohibition Main Issue Crime Chief Says In Letter

STATE AID NECESSITY

Wickersham Sees Vol-
stead Act As Most Serious Problem.

NEW LONDON, Conn., July 6.
(AP)—Governor Franklin D.
Roosevelt, speaking at a governor's conference which opened here today, read a letter from George W.
Wickersham, head of President Hoover's law enforcement commission, in which Wickersham admitted the weakness of the federal prohibition enforcement act.

The letter, described by Governor Roosevelt as the first public expression of the law enforcement chief on the subject, pointed out that enforcement of the Volstead act had heretofore rested chiefly on the shoulders of the federal government.

He suggested some division of the burden between the states and the national government, the states to handle the "retailing" end of the "peculiarly profitable crime" while the government looked after enforcement of the wholesale violations.

Wickersham assured Governor Roosevelt that prohibition was "the most serious subject" the law enforcement commission would be called upon to consider.

Popular Pastime Is Wreck-

County Seat.

If you want to be in style these days, just drive your car out on the Washington Pike and have it all messed up.

Of course, you can have it done here in town or on any road, if you don't watch your step, but to be in style it must happen on the road to the county. There is no explaining why but that's that.

Saturday afternoon and night, Sunday afternoon and night, on Monday morning it happens. More so, we should say, than at other times. Of course, nobody was to blame—but they headed into each other just the same. And its costs just as much to get hurt there as elsewhere. Try it—or dispute right of way with a fire truck
when headed to a blaze.

Aids Small Dairymen

DAIRYMEN with only small herds have long found the problem of cooling their milk at small cost a difficult one. The perfection of a new milk cooling device to meet the needs of these farmers has recently been announced and should be a welcome addition to their equipment.

The new apparatus is described as being so simple that people will wonder why it wasn't thought of before. It consists primarily of a tank with a sweet water brine, in which a 10-gallon can is filled. A tinny copper coil is submerged in the milk and the brine is pumped through the coil with a fractional horsepower motor direct connected with a small circulating pump, which makes the operating cost comparatively little.

Milk fresh from the cow is brought down to a temperature of 35 degrees in eight minutes, thus one 10-gallon can may be cooled by the time the next is ready during the milking period.

Engineers of the Servel laboratories in Evansville, Ind., where the refrigerating part of the device was perfected are elated over its successful operation, and believe that it represents one of the most useful inventions lately produced for modernizing the farm.

Edison's Message

AT the inauguration of Light's Golden Jubilee, celebrating the 50th anniversary of Thomas A. Edison's invention of the incandescent lamp, the great inventor sent this message to the National Electric Light Association:

"When I invented the incandescent lamp, I realized that the lamp alone was not enough. It was necessary also to perfect a system of electric generation and distribution. I immediately set about to develop it, and it makes me happy to know that the system as well as the lamp still persists in all its essentials.

"I had in those days a high opinion of my invention. All inventors have. But I must confess that I never dreamed that from it would come the stupendous electrical industry of today.

"Naturally I am gratified to feel that I have been privileged to play a part in this vast achievement. I am proud of the electrical industry—of its vision, courage, zeal and devotion to public service; and I suspect every American feels the same way about it.

"It is a great reward to me and the many colleagues and co-workers, who, I rejoice to say are still living, that we have survived to see the full fruit of our labors. The record is wonderful; but, fine as it is, it can be made still better, and I have a feeling that in your hands it will be."

Fourth of July Deaths

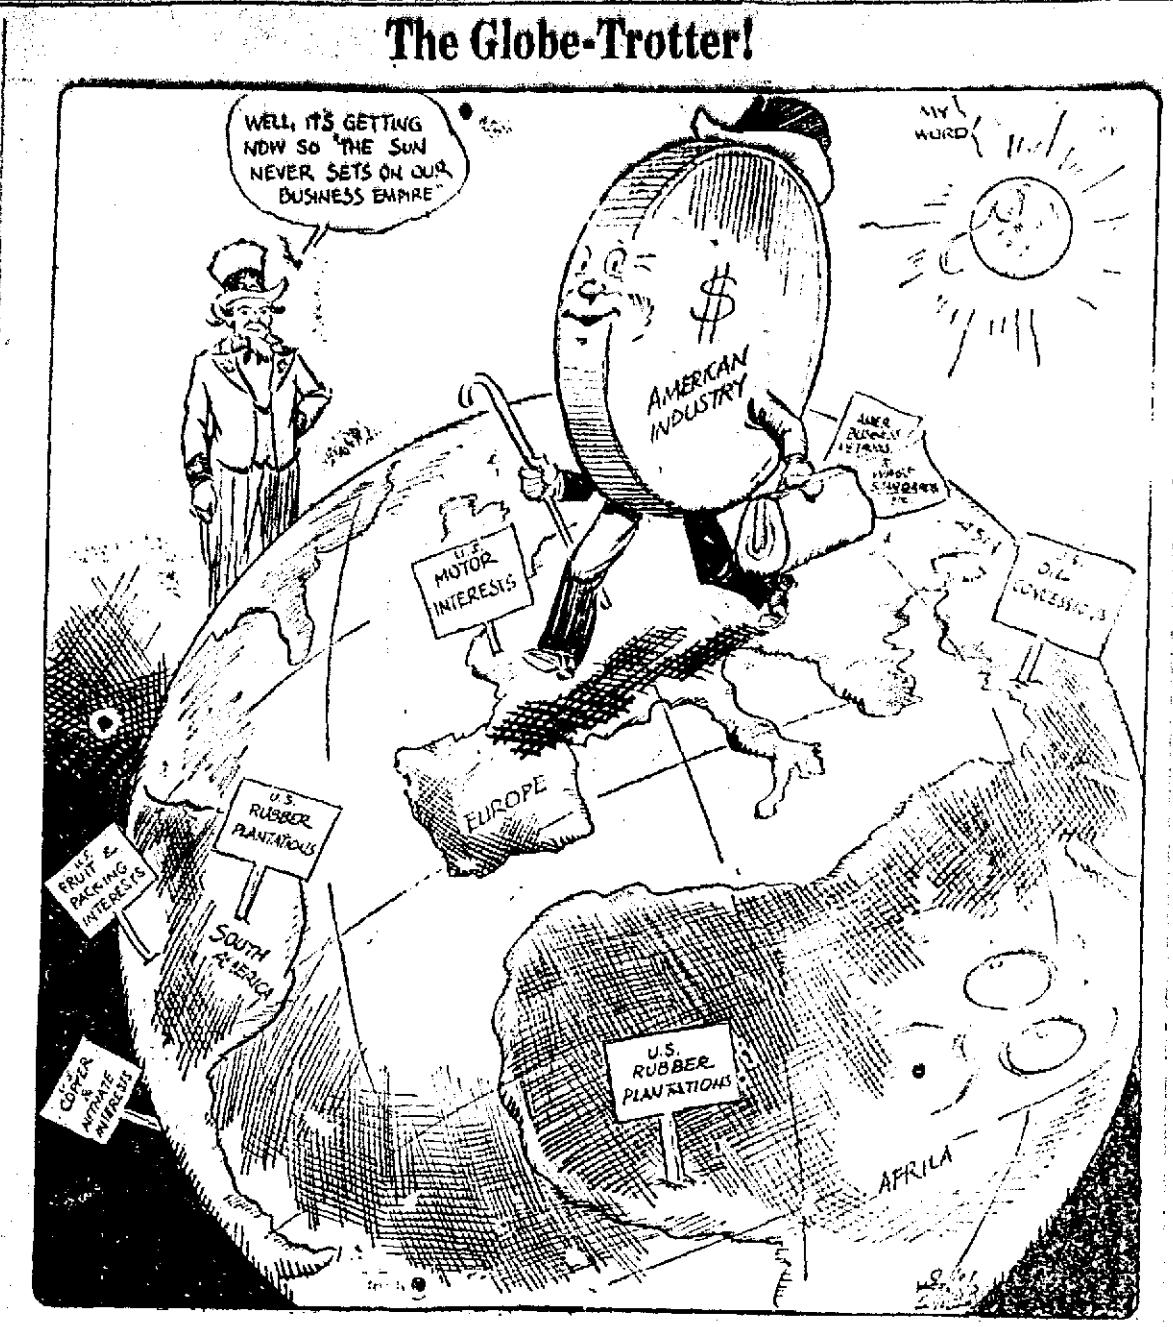

ASSOCIATED PRESS reports indicate that 159 persons met violent deaths on July 4 this year, being 46 less than on the national holiday a year ago. Only 7 fatalities were due to fireworks.

Drownings and automobile accidents were responsible for the greater number of deaths, the former showing a decrease and the latter an increase.

Of course all these deaths can not be attributed to the fact that July 4 was a holiday, as there are a good many accidental deaths every day, but it seems inevitable that a large number of persons must lose their lives in the pursuit of holiday pleasure.

Automobiles took a toll of 70 lives, an increase of 16 over July 4 last year. In spite of all the warnings that may be given, the motoring public appears strangely indifferent to the frightful loss of life occurring from automobile accidents. Needless speeding and taking unnecessary chances are responsible for most of the deaths and injuries which make up the daily list.

Unfortunately, the reckless often kill and maim careful persons who are unable to get out of their way. It is getting so that one who values his life had better stay at home on Sundays and holidays, especially. Otherwise he is at the mercy of a lot of irresponsible fools, who drive with utter disregard of themselves or others.

WASHINGTON LETTER

By Rodney Dutcher

Now that all the signatory nations have ratified the Kellogg treaty to outlaw war and the peace dove is cooling more comfortable than it ever could be before, the government may one of these days issue a special postage stamp to commemorate the treaty.

The State Department and the Postoffice Department have before them a request of the American branch of the Women's League for Peace and Freedom for a special postage stamp whose design would reproduce the signing of the pact by President Coolidge at the White House and it is understood that both departments are considerably interested in the idea.

Senator Borah, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, favors the peace stamp proposal. The stamp could be issued by the Postoffice Department either with or without the authorization of Congress. The State Department naturally would be interested because the recent ratification of the Kellogg pact by the Japanese Diet represented the consummation of one of the major strokes of modern American diplomacy.

Issuance of a peace stamp at about this time would come with extraordinary timeliness, for the world peace outlook, what with the Kellogg pact and the expected visit of British Premier Ramsay MacDonald for a heart-to-heart talk with President Hoover is unusually bright. There may be a war cloud here and there, but none is especially dark.

Peace societies such as the Women's League are very optimistic about it all and no less than ecstatic over President Hoover's strong pronouncements in favor of armament reduction. They believe that various other measures more or less directly connected with the general peaceful trend are now bound to be effected and that their position in support of these measures has been vastly strengthened.

Next winter the Senate probably will take up Elihu Root's formula for American adherence to the World Court protocol, which is favored by the peace societies. Previously the Senate agreed to enter the World Court with five reservations. Other nations chafed on the fifth reservation, which would have given the United States discretionary power to prevent court decisions on matters in which we claimed to have an interest. The Senate will undoubtedly have another try at adhering to the World Court and it is commonly believed that the Root formula, with Hoover's support, will be accepted.

The Senate will also consider ratification of the Pan-American arbitration treaty, which is a far-reaching document although it does not outlaw war as the Kellogg treaty does. The Pan-American treaty, which has now been signed by all the American republics concerned, binds the contracting parties to submit to arbitration all disputes judicial in character. Specifically, these disputes include the interpretation of treaties, all questions of international law, existence of any fact which, if established, would constitute a breach of international obligation and the nature or extent of reparation to be paid in event of breach of an international obligation.

By Rodney Dutcher

Now that all the signatory nations have ratified the Kellogg treaty to outlaw war and the peace dove is cooling more comfortable than it ever could be before, the government may one of these days issue a special postage stamp to commemorate the treaty.

The State Department and the Postoffice Department have before them a request of the American branch of the Women's League for Peace and Freedom for a special postage stamp whose design would reproduce the signing of the pact by President Coolidge at the White House and it is understood that both departments are considerably interested in the idea.

Senator Borah, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, favors the peace stamp proposal. The stamp could be issued by the Postoffice Department either with or without the authorization of Congress. The State Department naturally would be interested because the recent ratification of the Kellogg pact by the Japanese Diet represented the consummation of one of the major strokes of modern American diplomacy.

Fake Odor Traps Moths

Two U. S. Department of Agriculture entomologists, A. C. Morgan and S. C. Lyon, have developed an artificial Jinson weed scent which attracts the hornworm tobacco moths more than the natural weed does. A preparation called amyl salicylate is placed on black cloths at the entrance to a trap similar to an ordinary fly trap. Funnel-shaped paper covers used to simulate the Jinson weed are placed inside. Attracted by the scent, the moths fly into the trap from which they are taken and destroyed.

Science Moves To Spike Chicago Gangland's Guns

The University of Chicago and Northwestern university, aroused by gang killings, have set up a "super" detective bureau to combat crime. Among leaders in the work will be August Vollmer, of Berkeley, Cal. (above), and Maj. Calvin Goddard (below).

CHICAGO, July 16, 1929.—(AP) atory. Establishment of these "big shot" detective agencies, one at each school, can be traced directly to the bloody Valentine's day on North Clark street when seven men met staccato death. Public horror mounted swiftly and a jury of leading business men probed the killings. Out of their inquiry grew first the crime bureau at Northwestern. The University of Chicago followed at once, attacking the problem from another angle.

Burt A. Masse, one of Chicago's business leaders, was foreman of the coroner's jury and has been the most active in organizing the crime school at Northwestern. He obtained an endowment of $300,000 for it from business men. It has been pledged full cooperation by police and the coroner.

This bureau plans no idle study to stuff library archives. "It will be primarily a place of investigation," says Dean John H. Wigmore of the University's law school.

"Its aim will be to gather evidence and have it presented to court and jury by men who have standing in their professions and whose testimony will be taken seriously," Masse explains. "They will be men who are under no political domination and cannot be bought."

"The trouble now is that police do not get scientific evidence. Much evidence is obliterated when a policeman arrives on the scene. Detectives can be trained in the bureau and the entire department instructed in preserving evidence."

Maj. Calvin Goddard, leading authority on ballistics, the science of bullet markings, is to be a member of the laboratory staff.

At the University of Chicago a great center for scientific study of police work, with the whole country as its field, is to be established this fall under August Vollmer, chief of police of Berkeley, Cal. internationally famous for his scientific methods of combating crime.

The entire resources of the university will be absorbed into this study. Primarily the center will be for police research aiming to put the university in a position to advise police departments. At the same time it can be called upon for immediate aid.

THIS HAS HAPPENED
Molly Barham, graduating from college, inherits $10,000. And it seems destined to bring her nothing but misery. In the first place, Molly is desperately in love with Jack Wells, a handsome boy without any money. Jack loves her, but flatly declines to marry her until he can take care of her. They quarrel when she offers him her inheritance. They spend a miserable evening, bickering over money. And Molly, in tears, announces that she is going to get a job and live her own life. Her newly acquired fortune will make it possible for her to take an apartment and live comfortably while she looks for work. She says that she had rather do that than return to the mean little prairie town where she lives.

After Molly has gone, in tears, to her room, Jack takes from his pocket a little diamond ring. He had meant to give it to her that night, but suddenly it seems very small and cheap to him. He drops it mournfully back in his pocket and departs for the last train. Next morning Molly goes job-hunting with her dearest friend, Rita Melotte. Rita is a brilliant, cynical young thing who is experimenting disastrously with a companionate marriage. Eventually Molly is promised a chance on a newspaper. She meets Jack for dinner, and to tell him her big news. He is maddeningly unenthusiastic, and dampens her ardor considerably. Then he remarks that he has some news himself.

Now Go On With the Story
CHAPTER IV
"Well, sweetheart," Jack told her, "the old man called me in today, and asked me how I'd like to work in the New York office. It's a big chance. Now if you'd only go home, sweetheart, like a good girl, and wait a little while, six months, maybe. How'd you like to live in New York? Take an apartment in the Village perhaps?"
"But Jack, I want a career!"
"A career! Molly, what's this bug you've got?"
"Oh, Jack, you're so unreasonable! You expect me to get all excited about your work. Or

Famous Mayo Brothers To Get English Degrees

Manchester university, above, plans to confer LL. D. degrees on Dr. Charles H. Mayo (upper right), Lord Dawson of Penn (lower right), and Dr. William J. Mayo (lower left.)

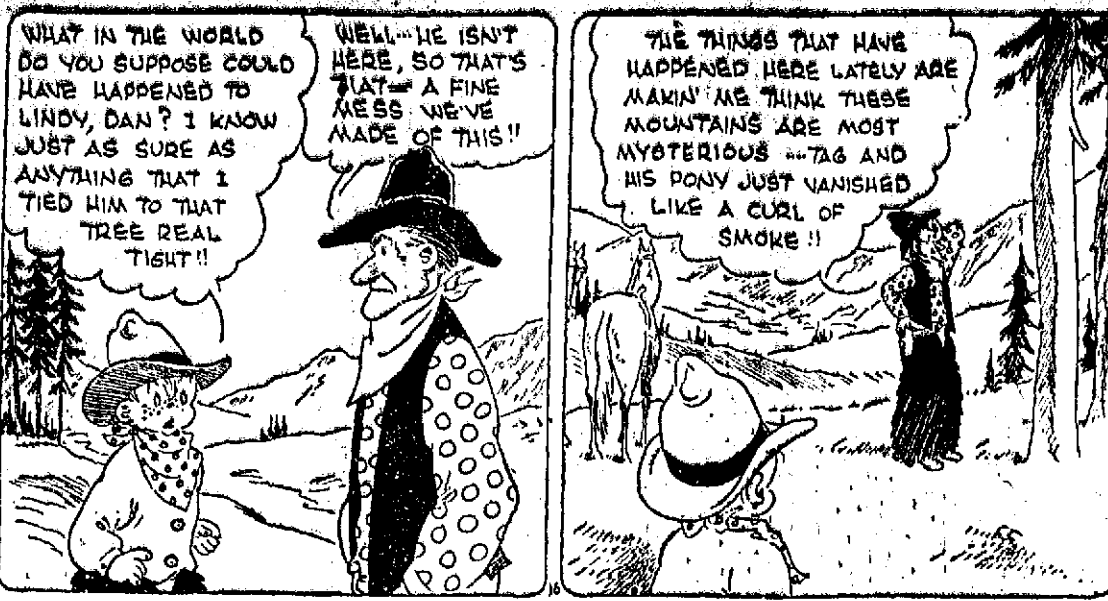

MANCHESTER, England, July 16.—(AP)—Two famous American surgeons, the Mayo brothers, of Rochester, Minn., will be the recipients of unique educational honors here July 24 when honorary degrees are bestowed at Manchester university.

They are bracketed with Lord Dawson of Penn, the personal physician of the king of England, to receive degrees of doctors of laws. As far as is known, it is the first time in English history that two men will have received honorary degrees at the same time.

The degrees will be conferred on Dr. Charles H. Mayo and Dr. William J. Mayo when they visit Manchester in connection with the ceremony of the British Medical Association. Their reputations extend throughout Europe.

A special occasion is being made by the conferring of the degrees, in that they will receive from the Earl of Crawford and the chancellor of the university. The three will be the only

FRECKLES AND HIS FRIENDS

Now They're Both Gone!

He was filled with shame and humiliation. Taking the ring, he dropped it overboard.

if I go to work?" she asked him. "Not a bit," he lied gallantly. "I want you to."

"I'll promise never to accost a bum," she vowed. And he kissed her laughing lips. "You know, honestly, dear, I think this is simply a golden opportunity. I've been so awfully hedged in all my life. Now, you see, I've a chance to learn about life, and love, and men."

"Hey!" Jack poked rather alarmed. "Lay off this life and love and men stuff."

She slipped it on her finger and held up her hand and watched it sparkle.

"Do you like it? Honestly?"

"Like it!" she exclaimed. "I'm crazy about it!"

"It's sort of small," he offered apologetically.

"Why, it isn't either. Besides, I hate great big stones. It's the very loveliest thing I ever saw."

Jack smiled. A great load was lifted. "You'll wear it to work in the morning?"

Molly hesitated. A shaft of moonlight caught the diamond, making it sparkle like a little stone alive. And Molly, with her hair gleaming like a halo, turned the ring around and around on her finger, and never said a word.

"You don't want to wear it—do you, Molly?"

Suddenly the lovely night was filled with tragedy. She bent toward him, and the little crouching scent of her perfume was wafted softly.

"Why, darling!" She held out her hand. "What do you mean? You see it's too large, dear. I'd lose it!"

"No," He shook his head. "No, that's not it. Molly. You don't like it because it's little. You're disappointed. I can tell. Never mind. I'll get you another one. A big one, like Claudia Cabot's." He boasted arrogantly, and got you a knock-out stone. I'm sorry I bought that thing.

"Jack Wells, are you crazy?"

Molly's eyes were full of shining tears. She smiled luminously. And, bending, kissed him softly. How could she say that it might not be wise to wear an engagement ring to work the first morning? Like telling everyone you were just about married. A girl without any romantic entanglements got along better in business. Men aren't interested in engaged girls.

Then suddenly, Molly was sorry she had hesitated. What did she care about newspaper men? Didn't she love Jack with all her heart? And now she'd hurt his feelings!

"Sweetheart!" she cried, and held the little ring toward him. "Wish it on for me. And I'll never take it off till you put a wedding ring beneath it."

But her lover was filled with shame and humiliation, and a sort of herat breaking anger. He reached for the ring, dropped it overboard.

"Oh!" Molly's startled cry broke on a sob. "Jack!"

"You didn't want it," he said. "But I did! Oh, Jack, Jack!" She leaned over the side of the boat. It's gone, she said, and her voice was flat and empty. "It was so white and shining. . . . And now it's gone. . . . She put her white fingers to her face.

"Yes," he answered dully. And he wondered if there was anything symbolic in her words. If there love, which was also white and shining, had also gone?

Molly was crying softly. "My poor dear little ring!" she sobbed. "I loved it so much! And now I'll never see it again. It's down in all that awful mud! Way down at the bottom of the pond. And all that money thrown away! Oh, Jack, how could you!"

"That's nothing," he bragged. "Money isn't going to count with me much longer. I'll have enough of it to buy you any darn thing your little heart wants. By the way, darling, did I tell you I'm going to New York first thing in the morning?"

"Jack Wells! You're not either!"

"Yes, I am. I report for work Wednesday."

"And I'll be in Boston all alone."

"Oh, no," He corrected her gently. "You'll have Rita and Bob, and Ruth Woods and her husband. And there's your new job. You won't be lonely!"

"But I want you!" she cried. "Never anybody but you."

Jack's mouth looked drawn. "You've made your choice," he reminded her. "You'd never be satisfied unless you'd found something to do. It's better, you said, than sitting around, hemming dish towels and playing bridge."

"Have you packed yet?"

"No, it won't take long. Throw a few shirts in a bag. Only thing I have that's worth anything is my sweetheart's picture, and the beautiful cuff links and the cigarette lighter she gave me."

"I'll help you pack," she offered.

"What!" Jack pretended to be shocked.

"Don't be silly," she admonished.

"Mrs. Maloney would be shocked to death. Gee, she might put you out!"

Molly consulted her watch. "It's exactly 10 minutes past 10," she said. "And I'm not a bit afraid of Mrs. Maloney. Come on. Start rowing."

"She'll have a fit," he predicted dully.

"Maybe she won't be home."

The Newspaper's Influence

Edgar G. Harris, publisher of the West Point (Miss.) Times-Leader and former publisher of the Laurel (Miss.) Leader and Blytheville (Ark.) Courier-News, declares:

The trade of a town or city follows the circulation of its home newspaper just as certainly as 'civilization follows the flag.'

Show me the circulation records of your home newspaper and I will make an accurate map of the trade radius of your town or city. Let me read your local newspaper for a month and I will come to your town a stranger and walk right into the leading stores without asking a single question of anybody.

Newspaper advertising is a certain index to a town's progressiveness, and the man who reads newspaper advertising can measure accurately the importance of its stores and their ability and willingness to render customer service.

The merchant or business man who figures advertising as an expense will never get very far. It is as much an investment as the merchandise which it is designed to sell, and the element of good will which newspaper advertising carries and builds and fortifies, is worth more to the right sort of business than any amount of money invested in merchandise and fixtures and fine buildings.

Good will created by newspaper advertising is worth even more than personality, which is an important factor in any small city establishment, and this fact has been eloquently demonstrated by the chain stores, which have, through the use of newspaper advertising, made tremendous strides within recent years.

NO BREAKS FOR JACK
Down in their training camp at Orlando last spring, Jack Hendricks, manager of the Cincinnati Reds said:

"If we get some hitting and Donohue pitches we ought to be up there for the pennant."
Well, the club isn't hitting and Donohue isn't pitching and at the time of writing the Reds are in the cellar and the Cincinnati customers are howling for the scalp of Mr. Hendricks.

Recently we wrote a few words defending Hendricks on the theory that you can't win ball games unless you have a ball club. And the following letter was submitted by "A Reader" to the sports editor of the Cincinnati Post:

But Hot Stuff for Jack.
Dear Sir:

Being a reader of your paper for the last 28 years I am surprised to read in one of the columns under Hooks and Slides and written by Mr. Henry L. Farrell, an article about Jack Hendricks being the most wonderful manager of a baseball club in the country.

I have been a baseball fan and a regular supporter of the Cincinnati Reds for the last fifteen years, having in fact never missed a game at the home grounds. Also

DID YOU KNOW THAT

Johnny Murphy Fordham, rated as one of the best college pitchers of years, didn't last long with the Yankees. . . . But told him he'd be back next year if he got real good. . . . Every time Heinie Mueller, the clown Braves' outfielder, sees a yellow cigarette wrapper on the field he stops and picks it up. . . . And the ball players started calling him a street sweeper. . . . And he gave them the laugh. . . . "Some of these days one of them things will be a twenty-buck bill. . . . And then you won't laugh at me," he said. . . . Dusty Cooke and Ben Chapman, two of the woe players in the American Association are the property of the Yankees. . . . That Allen, Cincinnati outfielder, hit a homer over the center field fence the other day. . . . It never had been done before except by Babe Ruth. . . . And they say the National League ball isn't hot.

having played quite a little baseball myself.

I would like to go on record as saying that Mr. Henry L. Farrell is all wet in regards to Jack's handling the ball club. In fact the both of them must belong to the same lodge or social club.

Jack Hendricks has had some of the best ball players in the country on his team, what did he do with them. Traded them or give them away. He had a player on his team about two years ago by name of Pee Wee Wannamaker that was obtained from the St. Paul club. Pee Wee went down with a charley-horse and was taken from the game in the sixth, the next day fat head Jack ordered him to play at short that same night I myself took Wannamaker to my home for dinner and had to almost carry him up the porch to my home. Then you had such rotten players as Pipp and Kelley for first base. Pipp can play rings around Kelley at anything in baseball, field better. He was always good for a hit in the pinch, still Mr. Kelley stayed and Pipp left. Take Eddie Roush, Ruben Bressler, Val Kleinich, Pipp, Carl Mays, Jack Scott, Wannamaker, Harper and Neft and about 2 semipro to make Farrell's Jack look like a dirty duse. These men all were good ball players but still they are gone and why are they gone, because there is no harmony on the club and when there is no harmony there is no ball playing. Jack Hendricks could see one of his men get his neck broke out on the field and he would not as much as get off his lazy seat to see if the man was going to die or not.

If Mr. Henry Farrell wants to find out how popular his Jack is let the Cincinnati Post take a vote of the fans or the Post readers and they will tell him in very short time what a fine manager we have.

Now the Cincinnati Post is supposed to be a fearless newspaper lets hear a reply to this letter.

Six Volunteers Seeking Rocket Passage To Moon

PARIS, July 15.—Six men have asked for the privilege of riding in the rocket which may be shot into the sky for a visit to the moon within the next year.

Professor Oberth, creator of the plan for the rocket, has personally received three applications and Robert Esnault-Pelterie, the astronomer, has received the others. Both admit that the possibility of a safe return is exceedingly small.

The first danger lies in the rocket's going away before it clears the earth; the result in that case would be a crash and certain death. The second is the possibility of striking the moon or some other hard, opaque body in the heavens. The third, is in descending, in which case Prof. Oberth has pointed out that the projectile is sure to be either dented or destroyed in striking the cushion of atmosphere which envelops the earth. Finally, there is the question of air, although an American astronomer has devised a scheme for supplying oxygen to the passenger.

If, however, the chosen passenger outwits the law of probabilities and comes safely down to the soil

Leavelle Slated for Main Event

"Tex" To Show Wares In Main Bout Thursday Night.

"Tex" Leavelle, Waco boxer who made a host of friends here by his stand-up fighting against Jack Mallock in a ten-round fracas Thursday night last, will be seen in action again this week. He has been matched to meet Jack Ashton, or the main event of this week's Legion card and has a perfect right to expect a good show.

Nearly every event carded, or that matter, is worth a main bout title, preliminaries being equal to many of the closing bouts in other communities. Leavelle has been here regularly since his flight with Matlock, is in rigid training, and says Thursday night he will give Hope fans a real demonstration. He showed last week he was clever and had a punch and in asking local promoters to match him with Ashton he demonstrated he has plenty nerve, too.

For this baby Ashton is no tough hombre, looking or a chance of climb up the ladder of boxing prominence and eager to surmount any obstacle in his way. Leavelle is one of those obstacles. Therefore, boxing will be good.

"Preacher" Walker, who gave away too many pounds last week in order to show ans he was willing is matched against a Little Rock smoke, said to be a wow! He'll have to be to polish off the Parson for this little yellow boy down here is coming fast and has the makings of a boxer. This show itself ought to be worth the price.

Promoter Robins announces every fighter under contract with cash forfeit for appearance posted and the card will go through as advertised. That ought to make it good.

The first ascent of Grand Teton peak in Wyoming, made in 1898 by the William O. Owen party, will be commemorated July 30 by three men who will place a tablet given by Mrs. William O. Owen, shown below with her husband.

CHEYENNE, Wyo., July 15.—(AP) Grand Teton peak in northwestern Wyoming, first climbed in 1898, will be scaled again in connection with the meeting of the National Editorial association here beginning July 20.

The peak is in the Teton National park, which will be dedicated by the newspaper delegates July 29.

Three men, Dr. F. M. Fryzell, of Augustana college, Rock Island, Ill., and William Gilman and Phil Smith, both of Jackson, Wyo., will make the ascent, starting the night of July 29 and finishing the next day. On the crest they will place a bronze tablet commemorating the first climb.

The Owen climb was recognized as the first official ascent of the peak in a measure approved by the last state legislature. Accompanying Mr. Owen at that time were the Rt. Rev. Franklin S. Spaulding, then Episcopal bishop for Colorado and Wyoming, and Frank L. Petersen and John Shive, Jackson hotel ranchers.

The tablet is the gift of Mrs. William O. Owen. She and her husband, who live in Los Angeles, will attend the ceremony.

THE FALL WEBB WORM

The work of this insect which is webbing up leaves on many trees is causing considerable anxiety among many folks at present. This pest which attacks most trees especially bad on pecan, persimmon, and walnut, at present may kill a tree if they are allowed to work on unmolested. In some instances they have been rather prevalent on apple trees. This injury has usually occurred where the trees have not been sprayed as regularly as they should have been. Those trees which have received liberal applications of lead arsenate throughout the season do not show the injury that those trees show which have had little if any spray.

Te webbs and caterpillars should be burned as soon as possible. This can be accomplished by using a stick long enough to reach the branches and have a lighted rag with kerosene, fastened at one end. If the pests are burned from fruit and shade trees care should be used to avoid burning the trees. The sooner the webbs and insects are destroyed the better for the trees they are on since a loss of foliage of the tree at this season is usually fatal.

Lynn L. Smith, County Agent.

ROSTON, July 10. — Children born between July 29 and August 6 will be the forerunners of a "super race," according to a prediction by Charles A. Mason, widely-known astrologer, author and lecturer.

The forecast is based on star studies covering a period of 17 years. According to Mason, geniuses women of extraordinary beauty, and possibly a second Messiah will be born between the magic dates mentioned. During the period in question, he explains, the most unusual combination of planets the world has seen for hundreds of years will occur. Venus and Jupiter will be so close together in the morning sky that they will seem as one star. Mason points out that old schools of astrology have recovered the belief that such a constellation was that which appeared over the stable in Bethlehem.

Astrologically speaking, children born in the period named will have "nothing negative" which can affect them, Mason says. Such children should have tremendous mentalities and live on an almost purely spiritual plane, according to What Is Cancer?

This is the second of a series of articles on the more common phases of Cancer. These articles are endeavoring to let the people know the most recent development of this dread disease. The data presented is reliable, conservative and educational. It comes to you thru the local doctors and has been approved by the State Chairman of the American Society for the control of cancer and the cancer control committee of our State Medical Society.

Cancer is a general term handed down from the dim age of antiquity and was the term used by the ancients as descriptive of malignant tumors because the swollen veins about the central mass or core, resembled the crabs extremities. We have not disclosed this heritage and today the term is still used to include all malignant or harmful tumors. To be sure there are many varieties and sub-groups of tumor growths that destroy tissue and even the patient but these are of diadematic interest and beyond the scope of this discussion. In quoting authorities on a subject as important as cancer nothing less than the highest type should be considered. We know that Dr. James Ewing of New York, enjoys this honor both at home and abroad. He states that cancer should be considered as a developing process of a group of diseases rather than one particular disease. All resemble one another in a single important respect. They manifest this characteristic in unrestrained growth even at the sacrifice of the tissue surrounding them. It is not at all uncommon to see cancer growing luxuriantly while the body is slowly starving for the very life elements which the cancer seems to receive in abundance.

This ability to grow is the faculty of every cell in the body, else we would never arrive at maturity or if a bone were broken it would never be repaired, or a worn out cell would never be replaced. From this we readily admit that growth and repair and reproduction is a faculty of every body cell unless it be a few of the brain cells. We further know that when a normal cell replaces one worn out or destroyed that it stops its growth at a certain point and will not go beyond his. Herein lies much of the difference between normal structures or tissue and cancer tissue. In the latter the growing phase dominates the entire picture either the restraint of normal cells is removed or the impulse or stimulus to grow has become exaggerated. Comparing it to the automobile for instance and we have a picture parallel to this either the driver will not keep his foot off the gas or his emergency break fails to work. The end results are the same either for cancer or the automobile.

Probably all cancers start in a small local area or focus and then spread to thru the adjacent tissue destroying and replacing as they grow. Something goes wrong with the regulating mechanism of the body with the result that the unwholesome persistent growth begins and, once started, it will not stop itself but must be destroyed or removed. The hope that the body will conquer the disease is a forlorn one and is like looking for ships that will never come in, not one in many many thousands ever completely disappear without treatment once they are really started.

Cancer may spring up from any part of the body either the outside like the skin or the inside like the liver or brain. When it starts on the outside it is at first local and very small. We are inclined to ignore it believing it will soon disappear like any other ordinary wart or lump. Our disappointment is strong evidence that the real change is cancer. The doctor should be consulted and if he is not sure a study by the microscope will solve the problem for him.

This is the most important time during the entire study of the disease since it can be completely removed without difficulty. If it remains undiagnosed and untreated it will continue to spread into the surrounding tissues and beyond reach of local treatment. It may travel to the deeper structures where new foci or spots will soon develop. No one will hesitate to agree that the treatment now is far more difficult and the conditions more serious than when first seen in the single small spot. How long it takes for these cancer cells to spread to new and distant areas cannot be stated with precision but an example will yield an idea. Cancer about the knee has been known to appear by hundreds of spots in the lungs in the short period of six weeks time from the first evidence that it was in or about the knee. These new areas are usually more serious than the primary cancer and require more vigorous treatment.

Cancer of the deeper structures as the stomach, liver and bones can be diagnosed early and with almost the same accuracy as those of the skin. It is true that a more intensive study must be made but the evidence is just as convincing when properly searched for and found. These cancers of the deeper tissues like those of the skin are small points or foci and require the same treatment, i.e., removal. To summarize and put in few words what is cancer, may we say that it is a lawless, obnoxious, unrestrained growth of cells that form no normal structure and serves no important purpose. That it starts in a small area and spreads both locally and at a distant area and may grow while the body starves to death.

The next article on "The Danger Signals of Cancer," will appear in a subsequent issue. Any question you may wish to ask should be taken up with your family doctor who will be glad to answer them or forward same to Secretary Cancer Committee, Little Rock, Arkansas.

Oil Royalties Enrich University of Texas

AUSTIN, Tex., July 16.—(AP)—Discovery of oil on lands owned by the University of Texas has made it one of the country's wealthiest schools.

Approximately $12,000,000 in royalties already has been collected from producing wells in western Texas. It is estimated the sum eventually will reach $20,000,000.

Several new buildings now under construction on the Austin campus will be paid for by income from royalties. They are replacing shacks built when the university was not so prosperous. Under the state constitution the university cannot spend any of the principal, which must be retained as a permanent fund. Income from the principal, however, provides the school with considerable "pocket change."

WOLVERHAMPTON, Eng., July 1.—Wolverhampton is building a rainbow factory. The factory will not manufacture rainbows but will look like one.

Instead of white-washed walls this factory will be decorated in stripes of many colors varying from delicate creams to browns and dark greens. The workers will be garbed in striped overalls of vivid hues. Even the steam and water pipes will be painted in unusual colors.

The machinery, instead of being the customary black, will be red, green, yellow, pink, grey, blue and white. The factory will produce paint and varnish the "rainbow" factory being an experiment in the effect of colors on the spirit of the workers.

Father and Son Shooting Off 'Feud'

ROGER FAWCETT Right, his father CAPT. BILLY FAWCETT

The Minnesota Fawcetts comprise the original father and son trapshooting act in three northwest. In a recent state meet Roger outshot his father, who coached the U. S. Olympic trapshooting team in 1924.

MINNEAPOLIS, July 16, 1929.

(AP)—A Minnesota father and his 19-year-old son are shooting out a friendly feud on gun ranges of the northwest this summer.

W. H. Fawcett, known for years as "Captain Billy," captain and manager of the American trapshooting team at the 1924 Olympics, is the father.

Veterans in trapshooting are getting a good laugh out of the fact that he is being pushed vigorously for his honors by his son, Rogers, a University of Minnesota freshman, who first began a study of the fine points of the game under his father's guidance a year ago.

Rapidly the son learned and in 1928 at the Grand American handicap at Vandalia, O., he was runner-up for the Junior singles title of North America.

In the Minnesota tourney just completed the son was high gun in the state all-around event while his father was barely "one of those present." Roger also went into a tie for second place in the state singles.

"Captain Billy," a millionaire publisher, has decided to come back with all his energy to overcome his son's triumphs. He is back on the training grind he employed in preparation for the Olympics.

He is a veteran of the Philippine insurrection and the world war, and often goes on big game hunts in Africa.

Excellence in trapshooting is based on consistency rather than brilliancy in a single meet. Fawcett, the elder, intends to be in every meet his son enters, and then count up the score at the end of the year to determine the family championship. Fawcett, the son, is agreed to that.

Texans May Raise Salary of Governor

AUSTIN, Tex., July 16.—(AP)—Texans, traditionally adverse to amending their state constitution, soon will have two chances to make changes.

Proposals to increase the governor's salary from $4,000 to $10,000 annually and to increase the supreme court's membership from three to nine will come before the voters July 16.

Both portions of the constitution have been unaltered since the document was first penned.

The home of Mrs. E. C. Thornton of Chicago was robbed after she had been called away by a fake telegram which said her mother was dying.
